Cadet Profile: David Hahn

Cadet David Hahn, from Austin, Texas, has been a Cadet since his junior year. He is Alpha Company's captain. He is a member of the Drum Corps and has earned the Expert Cadet Badge and Marksmanship Badge.

The best things about Chamberlain-Hunt are the lifelong friends I have made and participating in sports.

A natural athlete, Cadet Hahn plays center/power forward on the varsity basketball team. He has been recognized as the best defensive player and has earned a spots in the All District first team, All South State and the State All Tourney teams. He is an excellent tennis player as well, winning last year the state championship in doubles and recognized as MVP.

"The best things about Chamberlain-Hunt are the lifelong friends I have made and participating in sports," says Cadet Hahn. Col. Granville has been most influential in his life. "He has acted as a second father to me and has consistently taught me humility and character. He is the perfect role model for any young man."

After graduating from CHA, Cadet Hahn plans to play NCAA basketball and eventually attend business school.

WEEKLY CATECHISM

2 Chronicles 7:14: If my people who are called by my name humble themselves, and pray and seek my face and turn from their wicked ways, then I will hear from heaven and will forgive their sin and heal their land.

What rule hath God given for our direction in prayer?

The whole Word of God is of use to direct us in prayer, but the special rule of direction is that form of prayer which Christ taught his disciples, commonly called The Lord's Prayer.
