Advancement, Development and Admissions

Chamberlain-Hunt's advancement department, located in the White House and headed by LTC Jack West, is divided into the admissions office and the development office. In general, the advancement department supports the operations of the Academy in various public relations functions. MAJ Chris Blackwell is the admissions director and Beth Cade is the admissions counselor; Buz Lowry directs the development efforts. The newest members of the advancement cadre are Princess Segrest and Crickett Oldenburg.

In June 2007, Princess Segrest joined the cadre in the key role of data management. She is responsible, primarily, for maintaining records of alumni and supporters of the Academy. Like the other members of the cadre, Princess pitches in during Cadet registration and various campus events, doing whatever is helpful.

Princess grew up in Claiborne County and graduated from Port Gibson High School where she was Miss FBLA (Future Business Leaders of America); she earned an associates degree in computer programming from Hinds Community College. She studied robotics and vocational education at Alcorn State University. Currently, she is completing her bachelor's degree in marketing at Mississippi College in Clinton. Princess is married to Steven Segrest, and they have four children, Steven, Jasmine, Jaaliyah and Johnathan—and two dogs and a cat.

An active church member at Full Gospel Church in Union Church, MS, Princess enjoys working at Chamberlain-Hunt because she is surrounded by "positive attitudes, godly people and people who don't mind working."

The newest member of the advancement cadre is Crickett Oldenburg, who started work as the assistant to the director of admissions in September 2007. Her fourteen years as a professional graphic designer and two years as a professional wedding and portrait photographer make her an invaluable aid in preparing the weekly e-newsletter, Cadet Life and advertisements for the admissions office, and brochures and other design projects for the development office.

Although she moved to Port Gibson from Shreveport, Crickett grew up in neighboring Warren County and graduated from Warren Central High School. She studied interior design and architecture at Hinds Community College and school psychology at LSU-Shreveport, and will receive a degree in public relations from Mississippi College in December 2008.

Crickett has two sons, Tommy and Tate, and her sister Jaime Coon is Chamberlain-Hunt's art teacher. She describes work at Chamberlain-Hunt as "fast paced but comfortable and friendly," and she enjoys the "strong Christian relationships and family-like atmosphere." Crickett also enjoys singing in the choir at Port Gibson Baptist Church, where she is a member.

Catechism Question and Bible Verse memory work for the Week of December 17

Q58. What is required in the fourth commandment?

A. The fourth commandment requireth the keeping holy to God such set times as he hath appointed in his Word; expressly one whole day in seven, to be a holy Sabbath to himself.

Isaiah 56:2. Blessed is the man who does this, and the son of man who holds it fast, who keeps the Sabbath, not profaning it, and keeps his hand from doing evil.
